Team Provider MIMMS Major Incident Medical Management and Support: The practical approach at the scene

MIMMS presents the nature and management of a major incident, focusing on how to deliver the medical support needed to multiple casualties. As the only international standard in major incident medical management, the course is taught and the principles are practiced throughout the world, being integrated into civilian and military medical practice.

The course objectives include:

- Understanding the organisations, structures and roles in managing major incidents and how they work together.
- Able to prepare for and implement a structured approach when responding to major incidents (CSCATTT).
- Able to deliver the medical support needed at major incidents, through triage, treatment and transport.

“Training, exercising and testing of significant incident and emergency plans within individual NHS organisations, between NHS funded organisation and with multi-agency partners is an important part of emergency preparedness...”¹

Continuous Professional Development

Revised guidance from the Academy of Medical Royal Colleges emphasises that the focus of CPD should be on its quality and reflection of its impact on a clinician’s practice, rather than the amount of time spent on the activity. The responsibility for identifying CPD requirements rests with the individual and should be based on their personal areas of practice and personal development plan agreed at their annual appraisal. Although one ‘CPD credit’ will normally equate to one hour of educational activity, the amount of educational activity obtained from a specific event may vary between individuals depending on an individual’s specific learning outcomes.

Information for educators and managers

As a charity, ALSG invests all profits in educational resources and partners with the most effective and respected organisations worldwide to develop exceptionally high-quality programmes. ALSG education quality is verified, accredited and recognised internationally as ‘best in class’, contributing to better outcomes for patients in life-threatening situations.
